THIS IS THE World's Anniversary Week.

IT CELEBRATES BECAUSE

IT LEADS ALL OTHER PAPERS

PRICE ONE CENT.

PRICE ONE CENT.

NEW YORK, MONDAY, MAY 8, 1893.

THURSDAY == SITUATION DAY == THURSDAY HELP WANTED ADS. in THE MORNING WORLD REPEATED FREE in THE EVENING WORLD.

EIGHT PAGES.

HARRIS KILLED.

The Wife Poisoner Executed in Sing Sing.

MADE A SPEECH.

"I Die Absolutely Innocent," Was What He Said.

ASTONISHING NERVE.

Talked as He Was Being Strapped in the Chair.

current was turned on.

SCENES OF THE MORNING.

12.40.30. Crowds Gather on the Bluff to Await was awaiting the final summons with Chaplain to his doom.

He was very pale but perfectly cool and collected.

On the threshhold of the death chamber he half paused and surveyed the witnesses who were to see him die.

Quietly pointing to the chair Connaughtor:

The prison of his days and accompanied to the chair Connaughtor:

The prison of his days and that one was his father, Charles Harris, After the father went away, as before, the part of clares the was before, the part of clares the was self to himself and devoted himself as a student might to the quiet discussion of this cigarettes.

It was the marvel of his guards the apparatus the back of the prison had in the intensity of the statement to the cubic.

When the wrote the Warden and Principal After the father went away, as before, the clares the was self to himself and devoted himself and the markelf and devoted himself and the markelf and the markelf and devoted himself and the markelf on the threshold of the death chamber he prison.

THE SCENE IN THE DEATH CHAMBER.

Special interest was taken by the crowd in the expected arrival of George Potts, the father of Harris's victim, and who was desirous, according to an Assury Park desparch, of being present to witness the legal killing of his daughter's singer.

The prison officially of his coming, but it was said that, in any event, he would not be admitted to the death chamber, the law, while it intended that pastice should be done, not tavoring or permitting its machinery to be used in the wreaking of personal vengeance.

By 10.15 the wails under the old prison officially devent, he would not be admitted to the death chamber, the law, while it intended that justice should be done, not tavoring or permitting its machinery to be used in the wreaking of personal vengeance.

By 10.15 the wails under the old prison were crowded with men and boys auxious to get a rilingse of anything connected with the execution.

Not there are the autopsy, arrived at the paper of cigarettes.

He had smoked two boxes or forty cigarettes and y for the past ten days. Seated on his iron-iraned bed, the murderer of Helen potts, whose teard was shaved when he first became the tenant of "No. 3" in the death house, looked like a young student as he blew the smoke of his paper cigarette into wreaths above his head, his spectacled eyes blinking reflectively at the bare wall of his cell.

Harris became very quiet and uncommunicative as the near began to take possession of him that his hours were numbered, and no had little to say. That it it was seen, neither as to his interest was taken by the crowd in the ection of the death house, looked like a young student as he blew to smoke of his paper cigarette into wreaths above his head, his spectacled eyes blinking or permitting its machinery to be used in the wreaking of permitting its machinery to be used in the wreaking of permitting its machinery to be used in the wreaking of permitting its machinery to be used in the wreaking of permitting its machinery to be o personal vengeance.

By 10.15 the wails under the old prison were crowded with men and boys auxious to get a rilmpse of anything connected with the execution.

Not since the first electrical execution at Since the first electrical execution men is since the first electrical execution at Since the first electrical execution and butlet osay. That fittle was, strange as it may been neither as to his future state, his approaching taking-out, nor the white-less approaching taking-out and devoted herser for monish to the cause of her son, and was now waiting quietly as the bare wall of his cell.

It is the dien began to take possession of him that his hours were numbered, and a bit life bag, the bas the deal pean to take possession of him that his hours were numbered, and a bit life bag, the bas the deal pean to take possession of him that his hours were numbered, and a bit life bag.

It is a the deal wall of his cell.

It is the deal wall of his cell wall of his with the extecution.

It is a the deal wall of his cell wall of his his hours were quiet and under the bag wall of his bag and thake possession of him that his hours were quiet and under the bag

Asked Not for Spiritual Comfort.
What this brilliant young medical student seemed to have uppermost on his relad was what his dinner and the morrow's beakfast.

FATHER AND MOTHER REUNITED. Their Meeting and Arrangements for the Funeral. SING SING, N. Y., May 8.-Since the trial and conviction of Carlyle W. Harris there have been many published rumors concerning a supposed estrange-ment between the head of the family. Charles L. Harris, and Mrs. Harris and her sons and little daughter.

The state of the case is not all and protections of the case of th den him farewell. "She said she had surgested that she visit him again Sunday, but Carlyle thought she hadn't better, and, after thinking it all over, she had come to the same conclusion, and would not visit him again. Neither would young Allan nor his father see him again, and the foung Mr. Morrill, Harris's coustn.

dian't do anything or say anything, they simply looked curiously at the roof of the death-house, beneath which Carlyle W. Hartis sai on his prison cot. The Murderer's Last Day.

"incipal Keeper Connaughton called Harr's early in the morning, and as of into trouble, but after her interview with him Saturday are felt much releved. He talked with her very serileved. He talked with her very seriand they reaved together.

'I don't think Mrs. Harris has repuerited any elergyman, other than the egular prison chapitalo, to call on her on. 'Baptain Well brought her here one than the cause of death, and the body was und has called here once since.

and though a grave had been made for her coffin, he refused to permit the burial, and for a week the casket lay on nose and a cigarette between in the receiving vault at Mount Prospect Cemetery, two miles west of Ocean Grove, N. J. Then even the loving Crossy Harris had been committed. Mary Helen Neilson Potts was laid twenty-four New York daily newspapers school, the Coroner, Carl Harris, and every other person connected with the case, for the death of a lovely boarding school miss so suddenly while her accepted lover hung over her bed, was in itself a sensation.

"even ei by "The World."

After a time the reporters gave it up. That is, all but the representative of "The World." Little by little he picked up the scattered ends of the most astonding murder tale of the age. On Feb. 27 he had gathered enough facts to lay before the Coroner's Jury so that that august and learned body was able to render the remarkable verdict that "Mary Helen Nelson Potts had died of opium poisoning, but that she had not enough morphine in her possession to produce doath.

This verdict was rendered by a jury of six physicans and six druggists, on evidence that showed that Druggist Even Melintyre had compounded a prescription signed "C. W. Harris student," on Jan. 19, 1891, and calling for six six-gram capsules of quinine, in each of which was one-sixth of a grain of morphine, a harmless dose. It appeared that the prescription was properly compounded, and that the dead girl had taken four of the capsules, one at a time, during a period of twelve dass, the last one being taken the night before her death, while Harris had saved two from the box, on the allened ground that a whole grain of morphine, even in six capsules, would be dangerous in a girls' scheel.

SECOND

EICHT PACES.

Indic ed for Murder. It was not till May 13, 1891, that the EFFORTS TO SAVE HIS LIFE. A New Trial Being Refused, the

Governor Was Appealed To. Strenuous efforts were made to save Harris from death in the electric chair. An appeal was taken to the Court of Hummel, who had been enlisted in be-

